The Impact of Digitization on Media

In our club meeting on October 12, 2012, Chief Guest Dr. Dinesh Kumar, Associate Editor, The Tribune, Chandigarh was introduced by PDG Shaju Peter as Rotary World Peace Scholar (2004-2006), sponsored by Rotary Club Chandigarh Midtown. Dinesh Kumar is a journalist with over 25 years experience in the profession. His past assignments include Resident Editor of The Times of India in Chandigarh, Defence Correspondent of the Times of India in New Delhi and Punjab correspondent for Indian Express. He began his career by reporting on terrorism in Punjab from the mid 1980s to the early 1990s. He has two MA's from

Dinesh Kumar

England – an MA in Security Studies from the University of Hull and an MA in Conflict Resolution from University of Bradford. He has researched his doctoral thesis for a Ph.D on India's Military Power at Monash University in Melbourne, Australia. He has been a Research Fellow at University of Maryland (US) and done an advanced course in Journalism from University of Westminster in London. He had got the British Chevening Scholarship – once each in 1996 and 1999; the Maryland Fellowship in US Foreign Policy Making in 1997 and the Australian International Postgraduate Research Scholarship.

In his address Dinesh said, "My association with this club goes back to 2004 when I was selected for Rotary peace scholarship which took me on a splendid journey to England where I did my masters in conflict resolution." He had earlier addressed our club on 2-3 occasions and other clubs abroad, and acknowledged Rotary as a fantastic organization of members who have a commitment.

Speaking on the impact of digitization on media, Dinesh pointed out that the changes have been phenomenal. He said 25 years ago typewriters and telex were the equipments that were being used and transmitting stories was a very lengthy and time consuming tedious process. But now technology has changed everything and things are being done instantly in a totally different manner.

The digitization has brought about a total transformation the way we communicate now. In 1990s internet had come. There was a revolution in communication and information technology and we could see things right in front of us on computers. We have emails to communicate within seconds. It does not matter where you are in the world, you can send messages across geographical borders in no time.

Dinesh said, "There is also an invasion of privacy. The information comes right into our bedrooms," referring to television, internet and mobile phones. He added, "Google came up in 1998. All you have to do is just type a few words and you get the information instantly."

He gave some historical facts, "It took 40 years for the radio to reach to an audience of 50 million. TV took just 15 years to reach 50 million viewers. It took only 3 years for internet to reach first 50 million. In 1995 number of internet users was 20 million. That rose to 400 million in the year 2000. Now we are looking at a figure of two billion people using internet, with over a billion websites."

Telephones took 130 years to reach one billion subscribers, and mobile phones took just 15 years to reach 2 billion!

There has also been an adverse impact with the information flowing in so easily. It needs to be regulated and authenticated, though there is not much change in the basics of journalism. Dinesh insisted on cross checking the information and giving a responsible report.

There was immense interest generated and Rotarians had a very lively inter active discussion on the subject.

During her recent visit to New Jersey, Rtn. Dr. Mrs. Shashi Jain exchanged flags with Rotary Club of West Orange, which she presents to President Ritu Singal

President Ritu Singal's Facet of Peace - Step 12 : Let us not conclude anything in haste

To support her thought on peace, 'Let us not conclude anything in haste', President Ritu Singal narrated a story of a person who lost the only horse he had. A few days later the horse returned, accompanied by 6-7 more horses. Then his son had a fall while training a horse and became disabled. But he was not prepared to jump to conclusion in haste to accept any sympathy or congratulations from the villagers. Finally, the king recruited all young men to fight a war, and all of them were killed. But this person's son, being disabled, was spared by the king and he was the only young man who was alive!
