RI President Ron Burton - Straight shooter The Rotarian -- July 2013

RI President Ron Burton

With his congenial manner and his inclination to keep things simple, Ron Burton has a natural ability to put people at ease. But don't let the easygoing demeanor of Rotary International's new president lull you into thinking that he doesn't get serious when it's time for business.

"If you ask my opinion, you're going to get it," Burton says, his neighborly look morphing into a solemn gaze. "When I feel strongly about something, I will argue like crazy for my position. I suppose that's sort of an ego thing, but if I discern that someone has a vested interest or may be looking at a personal economic benefit, I have a simple suggestion: Apply The Four-Way Test."

An uncompromising sense of ethics may be the only personal quality that the former president of the University of Oklahoma Foundation Inc. is willing to wear on his sleeve. "Like most people, I don't like to be told I'm wrong," he says. "But I can be convinced that there's another way to look at something, and sometimes I'll change my mind. If it's an ethical issue, though, you're not going to tell me I'm wrong. It's not going to happen. I've dealt with too many people over the years who wanted to misuse funds. I've looked them in the eye and said, "I'm not going to jail for you or anyone else."

When it came to meeting his future wife, Jetta, Burton was initially in the right place, but his timing was a bit off. Both charter members of the baby boom generation, they were born in the same year and at the same overcrowded hospital, where dresser drawers substituted for basins. But he arrived three months ahead of her. They had mutual friends growing up and finally met in high school, where they were members of the band. He was a junior and played trombone. She was a sophomore and played bassoon. Their first date was 18 September 1962. They tied the knot in college.

After 45 years of marriage, with a daughter, a son, and three grandchildren, Burton emphasizes that their life together has been a partnership, especially when it comes to Rotary.

Matthews begins term as first woman Rotary International Vice President

By Arnold R. Grahl
Rotary News - July 2013

As Rotary clubs continue to promote diversity in their membership, Rotary is marking a milestone. Anne L. Matthews, a Rotarian from South Carolina, USA, began her term on 01 July 2013 as the first female Vice President of Rotary International.

"Women have contributed significantly to Rotary initiatives, and will continue to do so," says Matthews, who is also the first woman to serve as both a Rotary Foundation trustee and an RI director. "No doubt, the unfortunate and sometimes misleading image of 'an old boys' club' will be buried for good.

"Whether the job is done by a male or female is immaterial," she adds. "What is important is that the individual who serves is effective in that role. With that said, I am extremely proud to be the first woman Vice President and am thankful for the California pioneers who pursued membership of women in Rotary."

A member of the Rotary Club of Columbia East, Matthews has served Rotary in numerous capacities. In addition to her service as trustee and director, she has been a regional Rotary Foundation coordinator, RI President's representative, lead seminar trainer for the International Assembly, Future Vision Committee member, RI training leader, and District Governor.

She is a recipient of Rotary's Service Above Self Award and The Rotary Foundation

Citation for Meritorious Service and Distinguished Service Award. Matthews is a Rotary Foundation Benefactor, Bequest Society member, Major Donor, and Paul Harris Society member.

She has a long and distinguished career outside Rotary as well. President of Matthews and Associates, an educational consulting firm, she has degrees in business, economics, and educational administration, including a doctorate from the University of South Carolina.

She has served as a trustee of Coker College, on the Advisory Education Board of the National Federation of Independent Business, as president of the National Business Education Association, and as a member of the Southern Regional Education Board of Directors for High Schools That Work. She has also served on the board of the Center for Occupational Research and Development in Texas and the Commission on Occupational Education, a national accreditation agency, among others. She is a member of Leadership South Carolina.

Matthews says she began attending Rotary club meetings in 1989, on the recommendation of her minister. It was not long before she became actively involved in her club. Her most satisfying moments, of which she says there have been many, include immunizing children against polio in India, digging wells in the Amazon jungle, and preparing food for the hungry.

"I feel especially peaceful when simply sharing stories and facts with Rotarians about the good Rotary is doing in pockets all over the world," Matthews says. "Seeing and hearing their reactions is particularly satisfying."
